Michael Beyda joined Hilco Streambank as an associate in 2016 and has been instrumental in conducting monetization processes of intangible assets for both healthy and distressed companies. He specializes in identifying and monetizing intangible assets for companies that own the rights to underutilized resources as well as assets that have been acquired through M&A activity. He has successfully led several complex asset dispositions for large companies that sought to monetize several unique classes of intangible assets. He is currently pursuing his B.B.A. degree from the Zicklin School of Business at Baruch College (Class of 2019) and intends to pursue a law degree post-graduation.
